Creative planning for beautiful bathrooms

Bathrooms are as individual as you are and the first step towards a functional and attractive room is thinking about the needs of you and your family. Whether you are renovating or building new, it's a good idea to consider the design and layout of your bathroom before you plunge into the challenging task of selecting the right products.

Now is the time to make sure your bathroom is working for you. Think about who uses the bathroom and how you can maximise the use of available space with better layout, recessed storage or smaller fittings.

While it may be easier and more economical to leave the shower where it is in an existing home, make sure you're not saving a few dollars now and sacrificing the opportunity to create a more functional, comfortable and beautiful bathroom.

This could be the time to think ahead and design a better layout. You use your bathroom every day and it should be a room that makes you feel good – year in, year out.

Whether you are building a new bathroom or renovating an existing one, the foundation of a well designed shower is the floor treatment.

Shower recesses with a raised and tiled hob surround can easily position the shower screen to sit neatly on top of the hob.

If the shower recess is flush with the floor level of the bathroom, you should have adequate fall from the perimeter of the shower to the shower waste to ensure proper drainage.

Selecting the step down or recessed option for a shower recess – this is where the tiles in the recess are 25mm or more lower than the level of the bathroom floor – gives a clean, unobtrusive look and is practically leakproof.

Preformed shower trays are available in many different designs, colours and materials. They provide an economical flooring surface that looks sleek and modern, is easy to clean, and will not leak.

Softline Series semi-framed

Clever design

The aluminium frame and door pivot system are cleverly integrated to virtually eliminate soap and dirt traps.

The smooth attractive profile results in a showerscreen that is sleeker, more hygienic and easier to clean.

Innovative features

Stegbar's unique positive close seal automatically seals when the door is closed, preventing water from splashing under the door. No more dangerous slippery floors and no more extra cleaning.

Today's style

The Softline Series minimises the use of screws and rivets, and eliminates all sharp edges by using a smoothly contoured profile that removes hard to get at corners while adding to the modern look of today's bathroom.

Smart details

The pivot door handle is typical of the details that Stegbar has put into the Softline Series. A spring loaded catch on the self centring door ensures the door is always closed and not leaking water.

Softline Series framed

The Softline Series framed range has smoothly rounded corners and uses contoured profiles to eliminate dirt and soap traps. Available in a range of standard colours or a customised colour to suit your bathroom decor, the frame of the Softline Series will add colour and define the shower recess within the bathroom.

With a choice between a single pivoting door, and a two or three panel sliding door, there is a Softline Series showerscreen to meet your needs and to fit into your bathroom layout. An innovative corner entry showerscreen using sliding doors on two adjacent sides is ideal for bathrooms where space is a problem.

Available in a range of standard and custom styles, the Softline Series can be fitted to all new and most existing bathrooms. Correct installation and optimum performance is guaranteed by Stegbar's team of professionally qualified craftsmen.

The Softline Series framed range will provide you a lifetime of reliability and functionality.

Mirrors

While almost an essential item in your bathroom already, you can make any room appear more spacious by simply adding a mirror. Stegbar has a range of mirrors so that you can coordinate the style of the mirror to the style of the showerscreen.

To match the Softline Series showerscreens, Stegbar offers framed mirrors using the same Softline Series frame profile and range of colours. And to complement the ultra slimline look of a Grange Series showerscreen, Stegbar offers microframed mirrors. We also offer two types of frameless mirrors – either with a bevelled edge or a polished edge – to fit with the elegant simplicity of our Frameless showerscreen range. So while you're choosing your showerscreen, why not choose a mirror to match?

As well as brightening your bathroom, a Stegbar mirror can be used to add interest to towel racks or shelves, and can be used in any other room in your home.

Handy hints

- When installing your new showerscreen into an existing tiled recess, it's important to make sure the waterproof membrane underneath the shower floor is intact to prevent water leakage through the shower floor.
- Where showerscreens are fixed to timber framed walls your builder will need to use additional structural support in the wall adjacent to the panels to ensure that your screen has adequate strength and support.
- If you are using a splayed door configuration with a frameless showerscreen, the door angle must be 135°.
- Ensure the toilet and vanity unit do not restrict the door opening or make access to the shower recess cramped and uncomfortable.
- It is recommended that an outward opening pivot door be used so in an emergency access to the shower recess is not impeded by the occupant.
- The ideal size for the floor of a shower recess is 900mm x 900mm with a minimum 500mm opening for the door.
- To limit water spray problems and to make cleaning easier, ensure the shower rose is situated below the top of the showerscreen.
- If possible do not position the showerscreen door directly in front of the shower rose or you could have problems with water spraying out.
- Make sure you can reach the taps from outside the showerscreen so you don't have to get wet while adjusting the water temperature.
