

The Australian
Timber Design
Awards, now in its 11th year, is a national competition designed to showcase and encourage the innovative structural and aesthetic use of timber.

The National winner will be announced on Friday 29 October, along with numerous other building and product category awards. This year, for the first time, a Peoples Choice award and an Australian Residents International Projects award are to be included. The overall winner will receive valuable editorial space in national architectural magazines as well as excellent exposure in the Australian Timber Design Awards Year Book.
