

75 Years of Australian Success

OVER 75 years ago, Enware committed to making Australian products that were unmatched for dependability, durability and style. Today, Enware is one of the most trusted makers of commercial tapware and safety systems in the world that employs more than 180 staff.

Enware's success can be credited to its experience and Australian can-do attitude, which has always been at the heart of its business. A company that values collaboration, quality, and second-to-none service, Enware can deliver customised solutions through its flexible manufacturing plant.

Throughout the 75 years it has earned the reputation for quality, fit-for-purpose products that perform in demanding applications such as:

- hospitals and aged Care
- schools and universities
- laboratories
- commercial kitchens
- prisons
- public and council amenities.

Adam Degnan, managing director, recognises the importance of support from key architects, consultants and experts within the industry that play a major part on Enware's success. These relationships have given Enware deeper insight into specialised applications, developing bespoke plumbing solutions and standard ranges for all purposes.

In this 75 year celebration Enware is looking back, thanking those that have supported them. Our commitment to work together and provide insightful solutions will continue into the future.

